Families, friends, residents and staff,

On Tuesday we conducted our most recent round of testing with results returning today. We were informed four additional residents and one additional staff member tested positive for COVID. At this time we have eleven residents and six staff members who have tested positive for COVID since last Wednesday. All residents and staff will be tested again on Friday, January 15.

As you have noticed the frequency of emails and updates has changed from weekly to nearly daily. The updates will not be daily but they will be issued after a change. On a positive note, we are beginning the planning process of moving individuals out of the COVID unit and back to their rooms if they meet certain criteria. The moves would occur next week, this is also when we can anticipate staff returning to work. Residents leaving the COVID unit and staff returning to work are both monumental milestones we are anxiously anticipating.

If someone has a specific question, concern or comment please do not hesitate to contact us directly. Email is the most efficient form of communication but we will return calls as soon as possible.

Thank you,
